For the 16th consecutive time, the Cuban Hotel Nacional was awarded the World Travel Awards as the leading hotel on the Caribbean island, in a ceremony held Monday at the Sandals Royal Bahamian in the Bahamas.

According to the hotel's official profile on Facebook, this award, considered the Oscar of hotel management, was given to the Cuban institution for the excellence of its work and conservation of its standards, which makes it the only UNESCO Memory of the World hotel in Cuba, since it maintains through its history the same glamour and attractions, with new offers adapted to modern times.

The award was given in the category Cuba's Leading Hotel 2020, which also includes the Gran Hotel Manzana Kempinski, Florida, Iberostar Parque Central, Melia Cohiba and Melia Cayo Coco, Excelencias Cuba magazine published.

The Hotel Nacional de Cuba was opened on December 30, 1930 and its luxury, elegance, distinction and first-class services, which include historical tours and a visit to the Cabaret Parisien, remain untouched after six decades of beloved leadership in the Cuban hotel industry.
