HAVANA, Cuba, Aug 22 (acn) Argentina's former president and current aspirant to vice president Cristina Fernandez returns to Cuba to see her daughter Florencia Kirchner, who is hospitalized since last March at the Center for Surgical Medical Research (CIMEQ) with a diagnosis of post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD).

After the authorization by the Federal Court which carries out a trial for alleged irregularities in public works during her term, the candidate to vice-presidency for the political coalition "Frente de Todos" will stay in Havana until next August 30, according to Prensa Latina news agency.

This is the fourth trip to Cuba of the ex-president, who has denounced everything her daughter has suffered in recent times, accused even of being part of an illegal association, which has broken her physical state.

Florencia, 28, arrived in Cuba early last March for a course she would take at the San Antonio de los Baños International Film School, but could not return to her country due to health problems.

At CIMEQ, she was diagnosed as having PTSD and other causes such as purpuric syndrome (purpura) under study, sensory demyelinating polyneuropathy of unknown etiology, amenorrhea, underweight and slight lymphedema of lower limbs of unspecified etiology.
